

Public comment regarding item 23 – provision of noticeboards

The Triangle noticeboard is in the wrong place as no one walks past it and the tree covers it with its leaves. It has been concreted in and will be difficult and costly to move. I suggest firstly, that notices are not eye catching at the moment they are difficult to read and certainly don't attract attention- brighter colours are needed on the notices. Secondly, the area could find a purpose if the iron structures that Norse offered to remove a few ago as they have no purpose. The sails could be rehung the right way up and then some seats and maybe tables could be added offering alternative outside seating, for people buying from the takeaways, wanting to sit and read or simply look, possibly places like Jo Jos and a Piece of Cake might like the idea as their outside tables are very restricted. Then the area would be used and possibly the notice board noticed. Some pruning of the tree's leaves would not harm the tree and probably be beneficial.
